IDW PUBLISHING SELECTS STOMPY BOT PRODUCTIONS TO CREATE LOCKE & KEY GAMES FOR MOBILE, CONSOLE

Stompy Bot Corporation (CSE:BOT) (the “Corporation”) is pleased to announce that industry-leading videogame consultancy The Powell Group has brokered a partnership between its client IDW Publishing (“IDW”) and digital publisher Stompy Bot Productions (“Stompy Bot”). Stompy Bot will design and develop games for console and mobile platforms based on IDW’s popular Locke & Key gothic horror series.

Based in New Brunswick, Canada, Stompy Bot is focused on creating global entertainment brands by leveraging game properties and injecting new content and technology to deliver top-notch entertainment. Currently they are producing the next PC-based AAA video game in the award-winning Heavy Gear franchise.

“Our entire team is made up of longtime comics fans and in particular the Locke & Key series, commented James Taylor, president of Stompy Bot. We can’t wait to get started on creating games that will be incredible fan experiences while staying true to the spirit of Locke & Key.”

Launched in 2007 by co-creators Joe Hill and Gabriel Rodriguez, IDW’s best-selling series Locke & Key has garnered praise since its inception. The series has been described as “frighteningly dark yet mesmerizingly brilliant, earning numerous awards and critical acclaim during its six-year run.

“The team at Stompy Bot has a passion for creating high quality games that combine creativity and fan enjoyment,” said Chris Ryall, IDW’s chief creative officer and Locke & Key’s editor. “We’re looking forward to seeing how they leverage their expertise to bring the chilling Locke & Key series to gamers worldwide.”

About Stompy Bot Productions

Stompy Bot Productions is a wholly owned subsidiary of publicly traded Stompy Bot Corporation (CNSX:BOT) – an independent video game and digital media publisher. Stompy’s growth strategy is to become a premier independent multimedia publisher. Their indie philosophy is to identify and acquire unique video game properties, apply innovative technologies, game development expertise, partner with movie studio resources and manage entertainment brands through a global media marketing approach. Stompy Bot is the exclusive Heavy Gear digital games license holder and publisher of Heavy Gear Assault, a next generation PC title using Epic Game’s latest Unreal Engine 4 technology.
